AFFORDABLE HOUSING NONPROFIT AGENCIES:

There are several non-profit housing developers active in Monterey County. Each organization may target different segments of the income-eligible population for their affordable housing projects but generally offer the same types of programs, including:

- Self-Help Housing developments that allow eligible families to contribute their labor to the construction of their future home;
- Single family home subdivision; and,
- Multifamily rental projects (apartments).

Non-profit housing developers are able to access a variety of grant, loan and tax credit programs that help keep the cost of development down. In return, the owners make the housing available at below-market rates to income-eligible households. The programs typically require housing units developed with their assistance to record affordability restrictions on the property to ensure that it remains affordable.

The largest non-profit housing developers active in Monterey County are:
